North Branch

Wedding anniversary greetings go to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur O'Connor. Both anniversaries were on May 23.

This community wishes to extend congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hummel of Maple Forest. They are the proud parents of a baby girl.

Mrs. Clayton Kellogg was happy to have as guests on Monday and Tuesday, Mrs. Howard Green and daughter, Elizabeth. Mrs. Ralph Langdon and daughters, Sue and Jo, all of Pontiac and Mrs. Walter Reese and daughter, Sue, of Coleman. Miss Green came to say goodbye as she will be returning to Bolivia, South America, the first part of June.

Mrs. J. E. Kellogg and son, Robert, attended the tulip festival in Holland. Later they motored on to Eaton Rapids to spend the week end with Mrs. Walter Bradford. Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Johnson are spending ten days at their North Branch cabin. Guests of the Johnsons over the week end were Mr. and Mrs. James Duffy of Bay City.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Meisel spent the week end at their cabin. Mr. Harold Johnson is making a new cement drive way at the Meisel place. The Meisel summer home on the North Branch is really a show place.

Harry Glasser spent a few days in Detroit with the Carl Warnkes. Charley Kellogg is now employed at the Welsh Motor Sales and Service in Grayling.

There was a good attendance at North Branch Bible Church on Sunday evening. Guest speaker of the evening was Mr. Fred Anderson of Flint.

We wish to apologize to Frederic Bible Church for the omission of their name from the list of guest churches at the last youth rally.

Mr. and Mrs. David Oeming and son were guests at the Dr. Goodsell cabin over the week end.

Mr. Ken Rourke was at his cabin on McMaster's Bridge Road over the week end.

Don't forget the youth rally at Houghton Lake on Saturday night.

Michigan Mirror

With the legislature due to adjourn this week after the usual hurried passage of last minute bills, political eyes again focus on Washington and the senatorial seat now being warmed by surprise appointee Blair Moody.

The mill is turning on the G. O. P. side for a likely candidate to contest Moody's popularity. Vandenberg is the name bandied about most loosely. Arthur Vandenberg, Jr. seriously is considering running for the chair so recently vacated by his famous father. He has established a residence at Grand Rapids.

J. Gov. William C. Vandenberg of Holland (no relation) also is wondering if his magic name could carry him into the job. And he also is a vote getter in his own right.

John B. Martin of Grand Rapids, auditor general, is highly touted as a candidate—and he also comes from Western Michigan, which traditionally is represented by one senator. Senator Homer Ferguson and Moody both are from Detroit, and Republicans feel this is not good state representation.

Other names popping up in connection with the 1952 senatorial election: Sigler, Kelly, Brucker, Ford, Potter and Shafer—to mention but a few.

Detroit will celebrate its 250th anniversary without state assistance. A bill to give $15,000 toward the event was ruled out of order by a harried house of representatives.

But the legislature was not too busy to whomp up a terrific argument against the old "lien law." The state no longer can file claims against the homesteads of deceased old age assistance recipients.

And, putting the shoe on the other foot, a bill to increase old age assistance maximums from $60 to $70 went down in ignominious defeat.

Interesting interpretation is the decision of the attorney general that instructions by insurance companies to agents not to solicit Negroes, Indians, Asiatics or Mexicans do not constitute discrimination. What the companies can do, however, is to raise rates for these people.

Civil defense in Michigan has taken a back seat in news coverage because of legislative activities but now will again assume its position in the front pages. Most recent announcement is that the U. S. Treasury Department has ruled that contributions by corporations and individuals to civil defense are deductible from federal income tax.

And money is one thing CD Director Gen. Lester J. Maitland really needs. Most pressing shortage is fire fighting and communication equipment.

Speaking of money and its source, there now is a new educational movie being shown which has a message to every community in the state. Its theme: "Help yourself in your own community before running to the state or federal government for aid. And use the local school system as a focal point for community development."

Arthur H. Vandenberg, Jr. is back in Grand Rapids studying the files of his father, the late G. O. P. and foreign policy leader, preparatory to publishing his memoirs. He has been approached by several syndicates who are interested in handling them.

The Michigan Farm Bureau has come out in favor of a "proper and permanent home" for the Michigan State Library. In a resolution passed by the bureau's board of directors, it was pointed out that hundreds of thousands of rural residents throughout the state have been deprived of library service since the February 8 office building fire.

Although oil never has been discovered in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, the conservation department has a request to offer an exploration lease on nearly 2,000 acres in Chippewa County.

A legal assistance plan for servicemen has been devised by the state bar. Machinery of the plan, which is unique to Michigan, provides proper handling of legal problems of armed forces personnel from the day they enter service at a minimum cost.

Tree-damaging anomala beetles, present throughout most of the Northern Lower Peninsula, are getting in their most destructive blows in the jack pine forest area in Roscommon and Crawford, Oshtemo, Ogemaw, Presque Isle and Cheboygan Counties. Says Norman F. Smith, conservation department research forester, Michigan leads the nation in the amount of acreage reforested over the years but like other heavily forested states we are only now effectively scratching the surface in the battle with insects and disease.

Michelson Memorial Church News

Dispel This Mystery

The true significance of the profits earned by American business corporations has been overlooked by millions of people—many of whom seem to think that profits and dividends represent unjustified and unearned income for a small, wealthy minority.

A brief article by Arthur M. Whitehill, Jr., which recently appeared on the editorial page of the Saturday Evening Post, does a fine job of correcting this mistaken point of view. Mr. Whitehill points out that one of two things must be done with the money a corporation has left after all its bills, including taxes, are paid. It can spend the money for business purposes. Or it can distribute it, in the form of dividends, to the stockholders who own it and make its existence possible.

If the first course is followed, the money goes for all kinds of materials—steel, cement, and so on—and for labor on the job and in the other industries which provide the needed supplies. In other words, the money is about as widely distributed as anyone could desire.

If the second course is followed, and dividends are paid, the responsibility for its disposal falls upon individuals and their families. As Mr. Whitehill writes, "Since about one third of corporate dividends go to persons with yearly incomes of less than $5,000, this responsibility probably does not create a very difficult problem. It is true that some 30 years ago only about 300,000 persons owned corporate securities. But, today, the total number of shareholders has been estimated at from ten to fifteen million persons, obviously not all millionaires and most of them ordinary Americans with saving habits."

One of the healthiest developments in recent history is found in the fact that more and more typical citizens are becoming partners in the American economy through stock ownership in our corporations. As Mr. Whitehill says in ending his article, "Perhaps if some of the mystery which shrouds use of business profits can be dispelled the importance of profits to all classes in a healthy economy will be more generally understood."

Crawford Co., Mich.

Notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed with the

Crawford County, Michigan, for the vacation and absolute abandonment of all that part of Maple Avenue in Grayling Park, Grayling

Just "Can't Get Over"
Easy's Fence

Few years ago, Easy Roberts took a lot of kidding when he planted that hedge of Multiflora roses — along his property line.
Folks said he was getting pretty high-falutin'.

But today plenty of people who laughed at the idea slow down when they drive by Easy's place just to look at those roses. Most beautiful sight you ever saw.

Practical, too! The hedge is a good four foot high now, and at least five foot thick—even a shoot couldn't get through that prickly mass of shrubbery. Best of all, it cost less than ordinary fencing.

(Might be well worth your while looking into.)

From where I sit, there's no sense in looking down on something just because it's different from what we like. For instance, some people think ice-cold lemon-ade's the best "cooler-offer" on a hot day. Some of us would rather have a glass of beer. The important thing is not to "hedge ourselves in" against other people's ideas and preferences.
